

IASPM Journal is the peer-reviewed, open access e-journal of the International Association for the Study of Popular Music (IASPM), an organization established to promote inquiry, scholarship and analysis in the area of popular music. We publish articles and book reviews that consider popular music of any genre, historical period or geographic location. In addition to Special Issue CFPs, the journal maintains a space for ongoing scholarly work through Open Calls. IASPM Journal is now soliciting an open call for articles on any aspect of popular music studies, widely conceived, for 2020. All disciplinary fields and research methodologies are welcome for consideration.

As part of an international network, the journal aims to disseminate IASPM member research that is local, transnational, global and/or international. English is the official language, but articles may also be submitted in the official language of any of its branches (adding an English abstract). Click here for a copy of the Open CFP (in several languages). Studies may use a range of research methodologies and critical approaches, including practice as research. Our Open Access readership is diverse and interdisciplinary, and so we ask contributors to present ideas in forms accessible to sociologists, musicologists, music critics and practitioners. See the journal site for further information regarding Submissions.

In order to submit to IASPM Journal you must be an IASPM member and registered as an author on the site. Once you are logged in, please update your profile, including the name of your institution (Affiliation). Complete your Bio Statement and include the language(s) and in which you can write or review. Where appropriate, add your reviewing interests as separated key concepts. Please avoid listing interests in one line to facilitate searches. When registered as an author you will be able to submit content to the journal by clicking on "Author" in your "User Home" column. All submissions undergo a double-blind peer review.

Music files (mp3) and good resolution figure files (at least 300 dpi for images in grey scale images) may be included as Supplementary Files, provided sources are acknowledged and relevant copyright clearance has been secured. Although research ethics are important to the journal, we cannot accept legal responsibility for any external Internet links.

Open Journal Systems is freely distributed software from the Public Knowledge Project.